Washington, Feb. 24.—The visit, of Prince Henry and his suite to the capitol this afternoon must have been not only a gratifying experience to the royal vicitor on account of the warm and flattering reception he received both in the house and senate, and of the opportunity it afforded him of meeting personally the leaders of both houses, but it must have been an extremely interesting experience as well. The prince not only saw the houses of the American parliament at work, but in the senate he witnessed one of those rare and intensely dramatic moments which come in that body occasionally at the conclusion of a great debate.

Washington, Feb. 24.-Prince Henry of Prussia has paid his first visit to Washington, with which he is highly pleased. His meeting with the president and the members of the administration was marked for its extreme condiality. President Rossevelt called on the prince at his hotel and the prince called at the White House in the after-noon. All this was done in a most diplomatic manner, yet there was a vein of friendliness throughout the pro-ceedings. The prince talked freely to the president and in return received hearty welcome from the nation's chief executive.

After dinner at the executive mansion, which was a most elaborate affair and was attended by the prince, his suite and the diplomatic corps, the royal guest departed for New York on a special Pennsylvania train to attend the launching of the emperor's yacht.

The prince and his suite arrived by a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad at 10:20 a. m. During the early hours of the forenoon the party had met with hearty ovations at Baitimore and other phaces along the route. It was his royal highness' first inste of American railway travel and he aptracting attention here, and there is a tinge of irony in newspaper comments.

Everywhere the prince has been given a royal welcome, his train being met by great crowds everywhere. The train is closely guarded by serret ser-vice men with the care that will be ex-ercised during the prince's stay in the United States. Prince Henry ex-plained to the welcoming delegates that he wished to see as clearly as pos-sible all the places which he passed through and as the mills would be inthrough, and as the public would be interested in seeing him as well as he de-sired to travel in open carriages in his trips through the cities, and especially
